Greetings Eric,

I know that you were/are a long time supporter of the Royal Oak.

I have been considering developing a numismatically-oriented presentation for their lecture series. Do you think they would be interested?

I do NOT anticipate a "coin collection" slide show, but rather something along the lines of a history of Maundy Coinage and ceremony, or perhaps an examination of crowns on coins vs the Crown Jewels. Any ideas or comments? My assumption is that fewer than 50% of slides should be coins in order to sustain broader interest.

Also, if they are ever in need of my administrative talents on a volunteer committee etc., I would appreciate your putting in a good word.

Bob Korver

Dear Bob:

It was a delight to hear from you. I hope you are thriving and I see you are full of new ideas. I am still helping other people write up coin research projects and writing up some of my own.

My wife is a member of the Royal Oak Foundation and I just read the announcement of a new head of the American organization.

Dameris Horan of New York City just finished 17 years being head of the American arm and she and her husband John have been good friends of ours. I worked with John Horan for 10 years because I selected him to represent ANS as its attorney in the case filed against ANS by Ted Naftzger over the Sheldon theft of early cents from ANS.

I think Royal Oak needs new ideas to keep the Anglophiles happy and you have a great one. I want to ask my wife what she thinks as she led a trip to England for the Royal Oak about 10 years ago and we had a marvelous time. She is creating a new event for another organization this weekend and will not have time to answer for a few days. If you want to talk to her our home telephone number is 314-727-0850. She works all day during the week but is home by 5 PM central time (4 PM your time). I will show her your Email.

Prince Charles was recently in St. Louis for a visit to encourage trade and we met him.

Keep stirring the pot and thrive.

Eric
